1. There is compulsory military training (Studium Wojskowe) at the Szczecin Medical Academy for all students, in addition to their usual medical studies. "Studium Wojskowe" includes drill and basic military training and the work of a doctor in the field. Failure to pass the "Studium Wojskowe" final examination at the end of the academic year means the loss of a whole year of study for the student. Theoretical military lectures take place during the day in normal study hours. Practical military exercises always take place on Sundays. Men graduates of the medical academy are sent for further military training to Lodz, and from there graduate with the rank of officer of the reserve. Some are retained as regular officers in the armed forces. This academic year, for the first time, two women graduates were called up for further practical military training; but it is not known where they were sent.
2. A graduate of the Engineering College (Wyzsza Szkola Inzynierii) in Szczecin (Stettin), who so far had not served in the army, was called up for one month of military training at the range in the Jankowo (Janikow-05/R37) region (14 kilometers from Drawsko).
